Flood insurance program at risk

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

A delay of more than a year in complying with a request for information on the village's flood elevations from the Federal Emergency Management Agency could jeopardize Pontoon Beach's participation in the National Flood Insurance Program.

Village residents with flood insurance could also have to pay a surcharge to FEMA as a result of the delay by village officials.

In a letter dated May 11, Janet M. Odenho, director of FEMA's Region 5 mitigation division, warned the village that unless the information is provided by June 12, the agency would consider placing the village on probation.

That would mean each of the 76 properties in Pontoon Beach with flood insurance would have to pay a $50 surcharge and would be notified the reason is the village's failure to comply. If the information is not provided within one year or the problems are not corrected, a second year of probation or suspension from the flood insurance program could result.

Alan Birman, a FEMA natural hazard specialist, said the agency needs to know the lowest elevations of affected structures. He said the structures, mostly mobile homes, are scattered throughout the village.

At Tuesday's village board meeting, the board approved spending $25,000 to hire the engineering firm Sheppard, Morgan and Schwaab Inc. to shoot flood plain elevations, part of the information requested.

The problems with FEMA stem from improper enforcement of village ordinances dealing with permits and flood elevations prior to 1993.

"The village didn't do things properly and allowed construction to go on that didn't meet flood plain elevation requirements," Trustee Mike Macek said.

The problem was discovered after the flood of 1993.

"We came to visit and found a number of buildings that had either no records at all or were lower than they should be," Birman said.

Safety tips after flood

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

For many residents, the water that flooded or kept them from their homes was only the beginning of their troubles.

As the water disappeared, it left mud, silt — and harmful bacteria — in its place. "Soap and water is not necessarily taking care of the problem," said Janet Burnett, leader for the Madison County — St. Clair unit of the University of Illinois' Cooperative Extension Service. "Bacteria can live for an extended period of time. That bacteria is still alive and growing and it has the perfect conditions (in flood water) to do just that."

The use of disinfectants in cleanup is essential, Burnett said.

Burnett said another important step in avoiding disease is to have a current tetanus shot. Anyone who has contact with the floodwater should get a tetanus shot within 24 hours to limit his or her risk of getting a bacterial illness.

Tetanus shots are good for several years. Rodents and insects are drawn to flood scenes. Standing water provides ideal breeding grounds for mosquitoes and stacks of debris attract rats and mice.

As residents clean their homes, there are also several things to consider. The following tips were provided by the Extension Service.

General cleaning
The best product choice is one that not only cleans away soil but also kills bacteria and a wide variety of microorganisms.

Cleaning products that actually have germ-killing power will be labeled using the word "disinfectant."

Products vary greatly in their directions for use, so reading the label is very important.

Some, but not all, liquid chlorine bleaches are considered disinfectants.

A common recommendation for final disinfecting rinse after flood cleanup of most hard surfaces is a half-cup of bleach per gallon of water.

Do not mix bleach with ammonia products.

Flood-contaminated foods

Filth and disease-causing bacteria in floodwater will contaminate food.

Center expansion planned

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

A four-building residential development for adults with emotional problems is planned for the area around St. Thomas Road and old U.S. 60.

Orville Mercer, executive director of the Metro Center for Life Management, said the center is planning to expand its residential program. The organization currently operates a residential home on Delmar in Granite City.

The center, a nonprofit agency that receives part of its funding from state and federal agencies, provides services for the mentally ill.

Construction is expected to cost between $800,000 and $1 million.

A zoning hearing for the development has been set for June 22. The hearing, by the Madison County Zoning Board of Appeals, will be on a request to rezone seven acres from B-3 highway business district to R-5 multiple family.

Mercer said the development will have 11 residential apartments with 17 bedrooms in three buildings. The fourth building will house offices, a community room, and a laundry room for residents.

The residents will be clients in the organization's rehabilitation or employment programs.

He emphasized that residents would not pose a problem for the surrounding community.

Pontoon Beach may request new census

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Continued growth since the 1990 census may be costing the village of Pontoon Beach as much as $100,000 per year.

To gain its proper share of that money — mostly state funds like the Motor Fuel Tax and state income tax, which are distributed on a per capita basis — the village board is expected to consider a special census.

According to Mayor Glen Wilson, action could come as soon as the next village board meeting, scheduled for May 23. The cost would be about $27,000.

The 1990 census set Pontoon Beach's official population at 4,013, according to Wilson. He said a new census would probably show an increase of about 1,000, a boost of about 25 percent.

"The increase is the result of annexations and continued growth in the village.

"We feel we've got quite a few more people than the census shows," Wilson said. "A lot of people have moved in, and a lot of new apartments have been built."

Trustee Mike Macek agreed the village's population is seriously under counted, but said 1,000 might be a low number.

"I'm looking at between 1,000 and 1,500," he said. "With the population growth through annexation and new development, we figured it was time to take a new census."

In 1993, he said the village annexed the Holiday Mobile Home Park, which contains about 225 mobile homes. That annexation alone boosted the village's population by at least 500, Macek said.

"We're servicing the areas now and we're not being properly compensated," he said.

Last year, Maryville completed a new census increasing its population to 3,224 from 2,576. Troy is expected to spend $32,887 to conduct one that city officials hope will raise its population from 6,041 to 7,000.

Rain delays Regional

Heavy rains postponed the postseason for the Granite City High School baseball team this week.

The Warriors, who are hosting the Granite City Class AA Regional this year, were seeded fourth and scheduled to take on fifth-seeded Civic Memorial in a first-round game Thursday. The game was rescheduled to Friday because of Thursday's rainstorm, along with another first-round game between third-seeded Jerseyville and No. 6 Alton.

The winners moved on to Saturday's semifinals, where the Granite City-Civic Memorial winner advanced to play top-seeded Edwardsville and the Jerseyville-Alton winner played No. 2 Wood River. Weather permitting, the regional championship game is scheduled for 4 p.m. Tuesday.

This year's regional is the first at Varsity Field since 1980, when Granite City South hosted a regional. From 1981-93, Granite City South and Granite City High School hosted a Class AA sectional tournament.

This year's sectional will be held next weekend at Kaskaskia College in Centralia. The Granite City Regional winner will play the winner of the Murphysboro Regional at 10 a.m. Saturday. The sectional championship game is scheduled for June 5, with the winner moving on to the state tournament June 9-10 in Geneva.

The Warriors, the sectional runner-up last year, entered regional play at 16-15 overall. For more coverage, see page 1B.

News to use

With a little more than a month left for senior citizens to apply for a legislatively-enacted property tax freeze, County Supervisor of Assessments Bob Harris said many eligible area residents are not taking advantage of the tax break.

"We have only received a couple of thousand applications," Harris said Tuesday. "With more than 20,000 seniors in the county, I am sure many more are eligible."

The senior citizen freeze has the effect of maintaining a property's assessment at the 1994 level, Harris said. That can have the effect of providing a property tax break for seniors.

Residents must turn 65 years of age or older during 1995 to apply, but need not be 65 before the July 1 deadline, Harris said.

The applicant must have had income of less than $35,000 in the past year to be eligible for the freeze.

"This can really be a benefit to those that are eligible," Harris said.

He said applications can be obtained at county assessors' offices or at the county supervisor of assessments' office in Edwardsville.

When a family member is faced with a terminal illness, most people really don't know what to expect.

Many families each year are confronted with circumstances that they hadn't previously considered.

Hospice care is recognized as an alternative way of caring for the terminally ill. In hospice care, the emphasis is on support and comfort for patients and families. Hospice caregivers are there to assist and support, not take over.

Hospice of Madison County seeks donations every year and its annual golf tournament is a major fundraiser for the department of St. Elizabeth Medical Center. The Ninth Annual Hospice Golf Tournament is set for Saturday, June 3, at Oak Brook Golf Course in Edwardsville. Entry fee for the four-person scramble event is $80 per golfer, which includes green fee, food and prizes.

Tea times begin at 8 a.m. Contestants such as hole-in-one, longest drive, longest putt, and closest-to-the-pin, along with skins game and raffles, will add to the fun for the golfers.

The Hospice of Madison County Golf Tournament Committee is accepting contributions of any kind, as well as reservations to play in the tournament. For more details, contact Nancy Kaprielian at (618) 798-3399. Other members of the Hospice Golf Tournament Committee include: Sue Gibson, Lotus Hommert, Linda Robertson, and Marilyn Wilcox.

Couples married 50 years or more are invited to attend a Wedding Anniversary Celebration at 2 p.m. Sunday, July 16, at the cathedral of the Immaculate Conception in Springfield.

For the third year in a row, the Office for Family Life of the Catholic Diocese of Springfield invites Catholic or interfaith couples who have been married 50 years or more to a special liturgy that re-affirms their marriage vows.

Bishop Daniel L. Ryan will preside.

This year's celebration will also include a musical program on "Family."

"Couples whose love has sustained them for half a century or more deserve the respect of the church," says family life director Donna Dausman. "They provide a witness to the Christian vocation of marriage that's stronger than any sermon on the subject. They are living witnesses to the value of committed love."

Couples (and two guests) who are interested in attending should send their names address and date of marriage to the Diocesan Office for Family Life, 1615 W. Washington St., Springfield, Ill. 62768-3187.

The Catholic Diocese of Springfield in Illinois includes 169 parishes in 28 counties in central Illinois.

Lurch selected for Illinois Sheriffs' Association scholarship

Madison County Sheriff Bob Churchill and the Illinois Sheriffs' Association recently announced that Suzanne Lurch of Granite City was selected as one of the recipients of a $500 scholarship for the 1995-1996 academic year.

In 1979, the ISA established a scholarship program for college-bound students. This program awards a $500 scholarship to students who demonstrate outstanding scholastic, extracurricular and character qualifications. Each Illinois county whose sheriff participates in the associate member program receives at least one $500 scholarship.

Crime bill is sent to governor

SPRINGFIELD — Lawmakers approved another get-tough-on-crime bill that would lock up violent offenders longer, but one lawmaker said Illinois would probably underfund the measure.

The Senate voted 83-2 Wednesday to send the crime bill to Gov. Jim Edgar.

The measure includes a truth-in-sentencing provision that would eliminate good-time sentence reductions for convicted murderers and would require other violent offenders to serve at least 85 percent of their sentence.

The measure also requires judges to state how much time a convicted criminal will spend behind bars during the sentencing hearing.

Illinois cuts prison sentences in half for virtually all inmates as an incentive for good behavior. Some prisoners can get additional reductions for participating in work, education and drug therapy programs.

Supporters say first-degree murderers now spend an average of 10 years behind bars but that would increase to an average of 33 years under the new legislation.

The Illinois Department of Corrections estimates the measure would cost $320 million over 10 years to build new jails to house an estimated 3,774 new inmates. The state has the most crowded prison system in the nation, at 165 percent of design capacity.

The bill would cost another $400 million 11 years from now, when convicted murderers who could have been released under existing law will have to remain incarcerated.

Bill highlights include:

Minimum 85 percent sentences for aggravated kidnapping; first-degree attempted murder; intentional homicide of an unborn child; aggravated criminal sexual assault; aggravated battery with a firearm; heinous battery; aggravated battery of a senior citizen; solicitation to commit murder; aggravated battery of a child; criminal sexual assault; and home invasion, armed robbery.

very carjacking, discharge of a firearm and armed violence when great bodily harm is caused.

Making it more difficult for accused criminals to use the insanity defense by requiring defendants to establish "clear and certain" proof that they were insane when they committed a crime.

Current law requires a less stringent showing of a "preponderance" of evidence. People found not guilty by reason of insanity go to a mental institution rather than a prison.

Program puts their 'World in Motion'

The fourth-, fifth- and sixth-grade Idea Lab students at Maryville School recently completed "A World in Motion," a program that emphasizes hands-on discovery of science and engineering principles in a cooperative learning environment.

Diane Turchi, an engineer with Amertech, served as a consultant to the teams.

THE FOURTH-GRADE students raced paper skimmers controlled by bursts of air in their Skimmer Regatta.

A team composed of Daniel Miner, Amanda Howard, Ryan Hoedebeck and Marie Spiker won the competition.

Option Derby, the competition among the fifth-graders, was won by a team composed of Deidra Walk, Jennifer Warren and Anna Lofink in which they raced balloon-powered cars.

The sixth-graders demonstrated their inventions in the Can Crusher competition.

THE WINNING team, composed of Jennifer Ambuehl, Kimberly Kohl, Jami Miner and Francie Davis, accumulated 37 points.

The Can Crusher teams scored points for the number of simple machines they incorporated into their invention, the number of times a machine part moved and the percentage of the can that was crushed.

Certificates from SAE International were presented to all students who participated in the program.

"A World in Motion" is a part of Vision 2000, SAE's overall effort to help improve science and engineering education.

SAE International, the Engineering Society for Advancing Mobility on Land, Sea, Air and Space, is composed of 60,000 members.

The program they provide is available at no cost to teachers.

Winning the can crusher competition with their score of 37 points were, from left, Jami Miner, Francie Davis, Jennifer Ambuehl and Kimberly Kohl.

Gift given in memory of student

Marquette Catholic High School is announcing a recent gift in memory of Kelley Dennis, who was a member of the graduating class of 1986.

She was fatally injured in an automobile accident.

Paul L. Williams, stepbrother to Kelley, recently presented Marquette Catholic High School with a check in the amount of $8,180. This gift will be used by the Drama Department to purchase a state-of-the-art lighting system for stage productions at the school.

Kelley's parents, Thomas and Charlotte Dennis, have also provided stage flats for the department.

An endowment in Kelley's name was established by the Dennis family along with the law firm of Bone, Goldenberg, Hopkins and Bilbrey, P.C., of Granite City. The Kelley Dennis Memorial Scholarship Trust Fund is available for incoming freshmen at Marquette.

Other scholarship opportunities for students at Marquette include the Founder's Scholarship, the Marc Roller Scholarship, the Mother Mildred Scholarship, the Mark L. and Edith E. Lambert — Roberta V. Kratshmer Scholarship, the Jane Morrissey Memorial Scholarship, the Judge Michael and Erma Kinney Scholarship and the John W. Halloran Education Fund, which was established by the Halloran family and the law firm of Callas, Papa, Hale, Jensen, Bachstadt, Bailey and Halloran, P.C., of Granite City. These scholarships, along with a Work Scholarship, are made available annually to all students who wish to attend Marquette Catholic High School.

In National Honor Society

Kristin Huff of Granite City, a sophomore, was inducted into the National Honor Society at Marquette Catholic High School on May 14 in the school gymnasium.

Adviser Mary Mager gave the opening prayer and Dr. C. Charles LeBlanc, president of Marquette Catholic High School, was the guest speaker.

Induction into the National Honor Society is based on the attributes of a scholar — leadership, scholarship, character, honor and service.

Huff is the daughter of John and Karen Huff of Granite City.

Age of communication?

She's not anxious to talk to her microwave, washer

It's not often I find myself in disagreement with one of America's (and my own) favorite funny women but last week, it happened.

Erma Bombeck, in a recent column, pronounced herself in favor of talking household appliances, for one thing, and—kindly, I trust—the possibility that such appliances might make men obsolete. Non-communicating men, of course.

First of all, I'm up to here with this over-touted Age of Communication. I'm sick of communication via computer and fax.

Don't ask, unless you yearn to see the air turn blue, how I feel about telephone answering machines.

I fume when I phone to make an appointment with a doctor, a hairdresser, or just to get an oil change for the car, and am subjected to what seems an eternity of elevator music. Or worse, a radio station I wouldn't tune in if my life depended on doing so.

In fact, I'm devising a system that, when perfected, I hope to market to business and professional offices that will offer the customer client patient a choice of listening music when human communication ceases.

I won't go into details but it involves scheduling a variety of musical choices—symphonic, rock, jazz, blues, pop, country-western—on a daily schedule.

Thus, if a little country-western goes a long, long way (and it's scheduled for Monday), I'll wait to make my phone call on Wednesday, when jazz is scheduled.

But back to talking appliances. I understand that already there are cars that will talk to you. I don't have one and don't want one.

Even less do I want to engage in conversation with my refrigerator, oven, vacuum or dishwasher. What do we have to say to each other?

I don't view my social life as anything to brag about, but Erma's must really be the pits, when she anticipates talking to the clothes dryer with pleasure.

"Partying with your appliances," she suggested, could make the need for a male on the premises (particularly, a non-communicative "lump") obsolete. For you, Erma, maybe; for me, no thanks!

Difficult as it may be to believe, Ed and I continue to communicate verbally. Casually or seriously, not always with great accuracy (as in, "You never really listen to what I'm saying!") and occasionally with affection, or hostility. Whatever. Neither of us has rusty vocal chords.

Inevitably, of course, there come times when communication with one's life companion becomes routine, a trifle dull, same-old-same-old.

But there are options. In my own case, sometimes I get out of town, drive 80 miles north for lunch and catch-up with long-time friends in the old home town.

Other times, I repair to my pet watering hole where my favorite bartender and friend Bert invariably greets me with, "How're you doing today... and how's your grouchy old..."

And I respond, "Mine's fine, how's yours?" before we get down to the serious business of exchanging recipes and risqué jokes.

Then there are the times (at least, for me) when I'm the one who wants to be incommunicative, when all's wrong with the world and, like Garbo, I want to be alone. Or even indulge in a little scream therapy.

Home isn't always the best place for either and never will be, come the day our appliances speak to us.

The public library is great. Quiet, no one to bother you.

Also recommended, especially for the therapy, several out-of-the-way spots on the SIU campus or the little drive 'way at the back of Woodlawn Cemetery.

As for making the male gender obsolete, perish the thought!

I like men far too much for that. After all, talking isn't the only thing one can do with them.

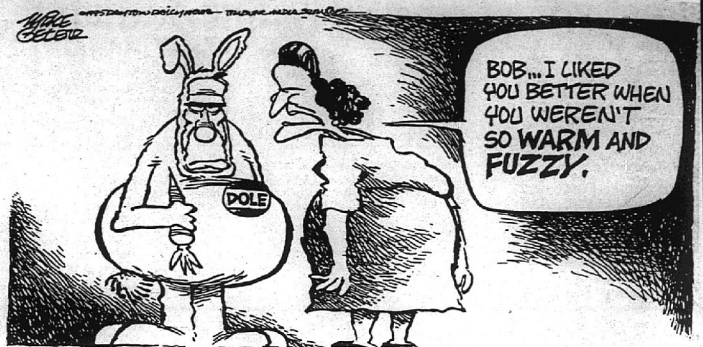

SIUE musicians excelled at Carnegie

TO THE EDITOR: On May 13, 1995, members of the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Wind Symphony were led by their director, John Bell, in a solo performance at Carnegie Hall, presenting works of Barnes, Gillingham, Grainger and Prokofiev. I am writing to inform your readership of the wonderful success that the ensemble enjoyed in this performance.

The aim of MidAmerica Productions is to highlight the appearance of distinguished ensembles from throughout the United States in Carnegie Hall. Indeed, since 1984 we have presented more than 450 ensembles in over 130 concerts in our annual Carnegie Hall series. We are pleased that the Wind Symphony was part of this series.

We congratulate the members of the ensemble on their appearance and wish to make special mention of Dr. Bell for assisting them in preparing for this special concert.

Indeed, your community is for-

Remember those who gave all

TO THE EDITOR: It was over 50 years ago when we saw our last sunset out here in the vast Pacific, before being lowered in quietness among the lonesome palms.

Strangers we were from various locations throughout our Nation when we answered our country's call. Yet united we stood even in death, though we lay. When we went down and were placed under the coral ground, most of us we still in our late teens and early twenties.

As you freely enjoy the privileges of our Great Sanctuary, remember those of us that turned cold before our time. We would like to have been around to share in what we defended.

Be a Freedom Fighter, respect and safeguard it without abuse. Teach your children to do likewise and pass it on to those that follow as it was passed on to you. Be proud that you can share in Freedom's privileges. They have cost a price that you may not realize.

In their memory,

Politicians stood tall on weapons vote

TO THE EDITOR: The Concealed Carry Weapon Bill failed by a vote of 29-23. There is no doubt now which representatives have faith in the people of Illinois.

I am very proud of my representatives in District 111 and District 56. They stood tall and told me they trusted and had faith in people of their districts by voting for the Concealed Carry Weapon Bill. Even though the bill failed, I believe we are the winners, because we have representatives that listen to and trust the people in their districts.

Sternberg appointed District 7 coordinator

Bill Sternberg, a funeral director with Thomas Mortuaries for the past 10 years, was recently appointed to the position of District 7 disaster coordinator by the Illinois Funeral Directors Association.

In this capacity, Sternberg will coordinate a trained and qualified Mortuary Response Team in multideath disaster situations throughout District 7. District 7 is comprised of the Illinois counties of Madison, Clinton, Bond, Pike, Montgomery, Macoupin, Calhoun, Greene and Jersey.

"I am very pleased to have received this appointment," Sternberg said. "I have been an active member of the Mortuary Response Team since its inception and was a member of the developing committee which formulated the Illinois State Operations Mortuary Plan."

Sternberg also recently attended an earthquake disaster seminar, sponsored by the Illinois Funeral Directors Association and held in Mount Vernon. "That seminar served to increase our awareness of what could happen should an earthquake happen along the New Madrid fault line," Sternberg said. "While we hope we never have to use the knowledge we learned at the seminar, recent events in Japan have shown us you can never be too prepared."

St. Elizabeth Medical Center forms BHS

Just like super stores in the retail world, the health care marketplace is becoming a domain for the "one-stop shopper."

St. Elizabeth Medical Center, a regional leader in mental health and chemical dependency care, anticipated the shift in this market and formed the Behavioral Health System (BHS). "Payers and patients are looking for providers that have better value and treat the same illness more efficiently, with higher quality and customer satisfaction," said Richard Boswell, director of BHS. "Rather than relying on an inpatient-based model of care, the new market requires full continuum of services utilizing multiple levels of care. The focus is on treating patients in an outpatient setting, with a combination of medicine, talking therapies and education."

BHS is an integrated system of services focusing on the outpatient patient and provide satisfaction and efficiency in the delivery of mental health and chemical dependency care.

"Our continuum includes all the previous inpatient services, directed by Renee Todaro, plus chemical dependency treatment and partial day and evening programs for children, adolescents and adult patients," he said. "Through our Outpatient Services, directed by Michele Sturm, patients are able to receive care during the day or evening and return home so they don't miss family life or work responsibilities."

"As a result, our length of stay is much shorter, since patients receive their care on an outpatient basis."

Access is a key point. "We have developed the Resource Center, a central location where referral coordinators help individuals find the right level of care for their problems," Boswell said.

Tina Lanter, Resource Center supervisor, said they receive referrals for all age groups and levels of care.

"We are the entry point for people seeking some type of service or just wanting information about BHS services," Lanter said. "If we don't provide the services, we connect the caller with a source in the community who does."

"The number of calls received through the center has doubled since it opened last August." Admissions are done directly through the Resource Center, important for confidentiality purposes.

"We worked very closely with the emergency room team to establish this program," she said.

"We couldn't do what we do without this close collaboration. Our new system provides high-quality triage, assessment and assignment of levels of care."

BHS benefits from the direction of its physicians, through their knowledge of patients and delivery of care.

Dr. Kenneth Sonnenschein, chief of neuropsychiatry, said, "This development of a continuum of care for mental health services is crucial to the system's future."

"This increase in outpatient and partial treatment services have decreased inpatient services, which is the demand of the market."

"The transition was a challenge for all of us, physicians and associates alike," Sonnenschein said.

"The associates' dedication was apparent as they maintained high-quality care through working double shifts and long hours."

"It is commendable that associates have kept a high-quality of care for inpatients through the addition of more outpatient and partial services."

Boswell said the resilience of BHS associates is astounding.

"This is the finest group of professionals I have ever had the pleasure of working with," he said. "Associates are showing their skills in all facets and levels of care."

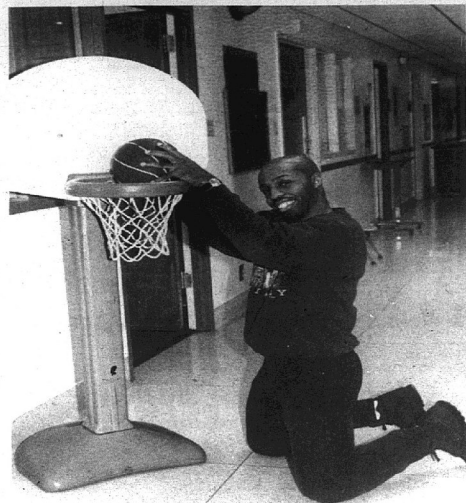

"They have kept all associates involved in the changes and in facilitating communication. Currently, they are producing the BHS Empowerment Series, an educational program designed to help associates acquire the skills necessary to work within a system where flexibility and change are constant," he said.

Associates have also expanded their abilities by collaborating with the Employee Assistance Program, Social Work Department and Cardiopulmonary Rehab with companies like Illinois Power, for whom they recently presented a stress reduction seminar.

"We have had the support of virtually every department in the medical center," Boswell said.

"We simply could not have done this without everyone working together."

"A year ago, we started with the intention of putting a full continuum of mental health and chemical dependency services into place so that we would be able to compete in the new marketplace.

"With the help of the associates from the medical center, we have done just that and are very excited about what we have accomplished."

BUSINESS

'Derivatives' hot topic in '95

"Derivatives" is the hottest new topic in the financial world.

We have heard of companies and institutions (such as Orange County and Barings PLC) suffering drastic losses via these instruments. But, what exactly is a "derivative?" Simply, a derivative is a financial instrument that has no intrinsic value. Basically, it is merely a promise to buy or sell some asset at some future point in time. Its value is based on, or derived from, the value of the underlying asset.

Some examples may prove helpful. If we talk about IBM stock, or a five-year treasury note, or shares of Fidelity Magellan fund, or a bushel of wheat, we are talking about something with intrinsic value. If, on the other hand, we talk about the right to buy IBM stock for $85 per share in June, or a promise to sell 100 bushels of wheat at $3.50 per bushel, we are talking about promises. These devices are derivatives, albeit simple ones.

As you may have gathered, they come in much more complex varieties. More on those later.

What use are these promises? Again, an example. Suppose you are planning to purchase some goods for your company in Germany in six months, and you will have to pay in DMarks, and that currently one dollar buys 1.4 DMarks per dollar.

Therefore, you buy from a

dealer his promise to sell you the DMarks at 1.4 per dollar when you need them. You will pay for this promise, but in return, you have a guarantee that you can get them when needed. If the exchange rate at that time is 1.5 DMarks per dollar, you will not exercise the right to buy them at 1.4, but if it is 1.2, you will.

What you have done in this transaction is "bought an option" to purchase DMarks. What you have accomplished is protecting yourself against the currency risk of a decline in the dollar against the mark. This is called "hedging" and is an example of a constructive, protective use of a derivative.

You might ask if this is how such a device is used, how have people lost many millions of dollars using them? This is a good business practice of locking in a price.

The answer to this comes from looking at the dealer in the example above. He has promised to sell you DMarks at 1.4 for a dollar. As a speculator, he would make this promise without owning any DMarks, hoping to profit by taking your payment for the promise and then further hoping that the price of DMarks, when the time came, would be over 1.4, so you would buy them on the open market and not exercise your right to his promise.

Now, look what will happen to him if the rate is 1.2 DMarks per dollar when the time comes. He will have to buy them at that price and then sell to you at a less favorable (for him) price of 1.4.

He will clearly suffer a loss on this transaction. If he owned the DMarks already, he would lose the potential profit. If, however, he did not, he would have theoretical unlimited loss, since DMarks could go up without limit against the dollar.

It is by making such promises in the range of millions and billions of dollars that Orange County and Nicholas Leeson of Barings got into trouble.

Very simply, they gambled that certain assets would not be above or below specified price levels when the day to deliver arrived, and when they were, they had to take losses, just like our dealer in DMarks.

Their, however, were in staggering amounts.

Brian Mulhall is a partner with America Group Financial Services. He can be reached in Granite City at 601-7622 or in Edwardsville at 682-9383.

Five SIUE business majors participate in policy test

Along with student teams from France, Mexico, Canada, Australia and other universities in the U.S., five business majors at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville recently participated in the Intercollegiate Business Policy Competition.

Joseph Michlitsch, professor of strategic management at SIUE, was the adviser.

The business simulation competition started out in a two-month interaction this spring on each of the home campuses, culminating in a five-day competition at San Jose State University in California.

SIUE students who assumed the roles of top management and made all the decisions in managing a computer-simulated corporation included: Keith Kehrer, an accounting major from Cuseyville; Frank Nation, an accounting major from Freeburg; Jeff Roth, a marketing major from Smithton; Kelly Tooley, a human resources major from Staunton; and Amy Zabel, an economics major from East Alton.

In the operation of the simulated corporation, the SIUE students made all the decisions, tackled all the issues and resolved problems concerning the production, marketing, financial, human resource, and research and development of the imaginary company.

In doing so, the students learned how different issues relate to one another and how to interact with a corporation's external environment, such as dealing with market demands, external competition, international markets, legal aspects and numerous other vital issues which affect a large corporation on a day-to-day basis.

During a two-month period, the SIUE student team made 10 sets of decisions, each representing a quarter of a year.

The decisions were processed through a computer bulletin board. While they were in California, the student teams from 27 different U.S. colleges and universities and five teams from universities in other countries engaged in 10 more sets of decisions.

In addition, they prepared a strategic plan, two annual reports, and two oral reports for the board of directors of their simulated corporation. The board was made up of high-ranking managers from business organizations in the U.S.

"The competition gave the students some practical experience in being (business) managers. As such, it provided an opportunity for the students to apply what they have learned in the classroom to the real corporate world," Professor Michlitsch said.

The SIUE professor added that "this particular competition provided realism not only because of the participation of actual managers on the board of directors, but also because of the SIUE students' interaction with business students from schools in other countries."

Taking the mystery out of Fertilizers from the experts at

FRANK'S®

Pick up any bag of fertilizer. Lawn food, plant food, any kind. They all have one thing in common. Three numbers. 15-30-15, 35-3-5 and so on. To many, they're meaningless. But those numbers tell the knowledgeable gardener all he or she needs to know about the product.

Buying any type of fertilizer product is much easier if you know exactly what you're looking for and can recognize it instantly when you see it. That's where the three numbers come in. They stand for Nitrogen, Phosphorus and Potassium, in that order. They're abbreviated N, P and K to make things easier.

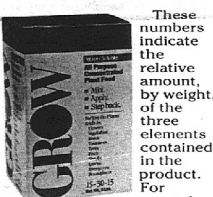

put on a dazzling display. To accomplish that, choose a fertilizer with a high middle number, such as Frank's Bone Meal (4-12-0).

Last, but not least, is potassium. It contributes to cold hardiness, heat tolerance and disease resistance. Many fall lawn fertilizers have a high third number, indicating they contain a large amount of potassium to help prepare lawns for winter.

Some products, as you'll notice, have numbers equal or very close, such as Frank's All-Purpose Lawn & Garden Food (12-12-12). Products such as these are great general-purpose plant foods.

Now, what's an easy way to remember all this? What happens when you're at Frank's examining all the fertilizer products and you forget which is which? Remember, the three elements are for greening, flowering and hardiness, in that order. Memorize three words: Green, Flowers, Hardy.

With this information, you'll be able to pick out exactly the type of plant food you need at a glance, every time you shop.

These numbers indicate the relative amount, by weight, of the three elements contained in the product. For example, Frank's Grow package contains the numbers 15-30-15. It has 15% nitrogen, 30% phosphorus and 15% potassium. As you've probably noticed, those numbers don't add up to 100%, so what's the rest of the stuff? It's a carrier that helps distribute the fertilizer more evenly around your yard and garden.

Of course, if you don't know what nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium does, you won't be too concerned as to how much of it is there. Here's a rundown on what each element will do.

Nitrogen (N) promotes leafy, green growth that leads to a healthy lawn, beautiful shade tree or a thick, lush hedge. So if you desire a rapid green-up of your lawn, you'll want a product high in nitrogen. Frank's Lawn Fertilizer (22-8-8) contains 28% nitrogen, and would be an excellent choice.

Phosphorus, the second number, stimulates root growth and promotes flowering and fruiting. This is exactly what you'll need in abundance when planting a new tree or helping your annual and perennial flowers

Financial planning at every life stage: what to do when

Tim Guthrie

Here are some basic guidelines for "what to do when."

"It's A Wonderful Life"
Ages 25 to 34

You're moving out and starting in a brand new job. You'll be earning a steady salary. All the things you should do now are probably secondary to those you want to do. But these are the years for developing good habits of spending, saving, borrowing and investing that will stay with you the rest of your life.

What about savings? A common mistake for many people ages 25 to 34 is living paycheck to paycheck. Try to save an emergency fund equal to three to six months' living expenses. And pay off your credit cards every month. There are few things more frustrating than paying off last month's credit card bills with this month's paycheck. Then consider your future goals — a first home, for example, or retirement.

Your retirement fund: Invest for growth. Since you have at least 30 years or more before retirement, establish an individual retirement account (IRA) in which your money grows tax-deferred. Take advantage of your company-sponsored retirement plan, which not only helps you save for retirement, but also lowers your taxable income. Since you're investing for the long term, choose investments with growth as your objective. Consider stocks of rapidly expanding companies or mutual funds that invest in these stocks.

Avoid the "invincibility trap." At twentysomething, you probably think that nothing can harm you. Disability insurance may be the farthest thing from your mind. But disability insurance can be a good safeguard against the unexpected. If you don't have coverage at work, get some; or if you're only minimally covered, get more. And don't forget renter's insurance. Even though you may not own your own home, your possessions are still at risk in the event of fire, theft or flooding.

The Family Way
Ages 35 to 44

By 35, you should be a master at the basics of managing your money. Settled down with a mortgage and spouse, you're now realizing there's an even greater challenge to meet — raising a family. Without question, children are expensive. When they arrive, so do the ills, child care, clothing, medical costs and eventually college tuition.

What investments should you consider? Although you shouldn't ignore aggressive growth stocks as you enter your forties, sturdy growth and income funds invested in large blue-chip companies offer a more conservative alternative for building wealth.

Finally, if you have children or plan to, buy life insurance and get started on drawing up your will. You can't afford to skimp on the future financial security of your dependents.

The "Sandwich" Generation
Ages 45 to 59

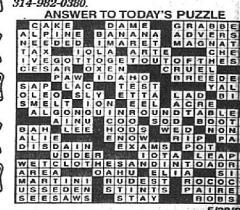

They say there are the years when you've got things in order. Your kids are grown and you're comfortably saving for retirement. Unfortunately, you may also find yourself "sandwiched" between the demands of your children and your aging parents — a three-way tug of war between their needs and your own.

College tuition costs and long-term care of convalescing parents can easily deplete savings. If you haven't saved enough, either refinancing your home or perhaps a home equity loan at a relatively low interest rate could be good sources of funds. Long-term care insurance policies offer another alternative.

What will I leave my heirs? By the time you reach your 50s, estate planning becomes critical. Focus on taking steps to reduce federal estate tax, which could range between 37 percent and 55 percent of everything you own over $600,000. This could involve creating trusts for your surviving spouse and children. Since trusts can be complicated, we suggest you speak with your financial consultant and your tax adviser to explore all your options before making any decisions.

Your financial plan is as unique as you are. However, at every significant juncture in life, we all need to make some very basic decisions to ensure our future financial well-being and that of our dependents. A professional can offer valuable guidance all along the way.

Garbage truck plan still awaits action

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Venice has made progress in dealing with trash hauling problems, but at least one more committee meeting is necessary before a plan to purchase and pay for a new garbage truck can be presented to the City Council. Alderman John Ervin, chairman of the council's Street and Alley Committee, said Thursday they were not ready to present a plan at Tuesday's council meeting.

ty," he said. "I know many of these folks and I would be proud to have them as my neighbors."

Mercer said the residents will be adults who suffer from depression or anxiety. Because they lack self-esteem, he said they need a more secure environment.

Residents will participate in a program to allow them to eventually move out into their own homes.

He added that there would be staff at the residence 24 hours per day.

"It's going to be a beautiful development," Mercer said. "It's going to be a real asset to the neighborhood."

He also said he was planning on scheduling another committee meeting to discuss the purchase of a new garbage truck, and a garbage collection service fee to pay for it.

To pay for a new truck, expected to cost as much as $86,000, the council is considering a trash collection fee.

The fee would probably be between $5 and 10 per month, and could bring in as much as $120,000 per year.

Council members also said money brought in by the fee could be used to purchase new police vehicles.

The meeting would be either Wednesday or Thursday, he said.

Several aldermen met Wednesday evening to discuss possible solutions to the problem. "It went very well," Ervin said. "Everybody agreed we needed to get a new truck, but we didn't get as much done as we would have liked."

City officials have said the city's garbage truck is unusable and not worth repairing.

The City Council at a previous meeting authorized Ervin to examine several used trucks, but at the last meeting he said both were in poor shape and not worth purchasing.

The city is now using demonstration models from companies interested in selling it a truck.

Once the city decides what truck to buy, Ervin said the city will probably arrange some kind of a lease agreement until the truck is delivered.

The clinic will be taught by registered nurses from the medical center's Women and Newborn Services and Organizational Training and Development departments.

Topics include selecting a baby-sitting job, job responsibilities, infant and child care basics, nutrition, first aid and safety. There will be informational packets, plus fun learning exercises. Participants are asked to bring a sack lunch. Drinks and dessert will be provided.

The cost is $15 per person. Certificates will be awarded upon completion of the clinic. Enrollment is limited to 30 people and preregistration is required.

For more information or to register, call Organizational Training and Development at 798-3201.

Safety

taminate food, making it unsafe to eat.

Thoroughly inspect any food left in the house after a flood. Even though some foods are protected by their containers, if there is any doubt, throw it away rather than risk disease.

Foods that should be discarded include:

- Opened containers and packages that have come in contact with floodwaters.

- Unopened jars and bottles.

- Containers of spice or seasonings.

• Paper, cloth, fiber or cardboard boxes, even if the contents seem dry. This includes salt, cereals, pastas, rice and any sealed packages of crackers, cookies or mixes that were within a larger paper box.

• All fresh fruit and vegetables.

• Fresh meat, fish, and poultry that have been in flood water.

• All foods that were covered by water, even those foods sealed in unopened cans.

• Home-canned foods. If flood water has entered a freezer or refrigerator, dispose of all foods not sealed in metal cans.

Commercially-canned foods are usually safe after being in flood water if the metal can appears undamaged.

Do not taste them.

All cans must be washed and sanitized before they are opened.

To disinfect cans, the labels should first be removed. (They harbor bacteria.)

Wash cans in a strong detergent solution with a scrub brush, removing all silt. Then immerse scrubbed cans for 15 minutes in a cold (60 to 70 degrees) chlorine solution. Household bleaches contain from 2 percent to 6 percent chlorine. The amount of bleach to add to the water depends on the percentage of chlorine it contains.

For 2 percent chlorine, add 2 teaspoons of bleach to one quart of water or two tablespoons per gallon.

After soaking, remove containers and allow them to completely dry before opening.

Laundry equipment Washers and dryers should be sanitized if they have been immersed in flood water.

After appliances have been reconditioned, sanitize as follows:

Washer: Pour a disinfectant (ammonia, chlorine or pine oil) into the empty washing machine. Run a 15-minute cycle on a hot water setting.

Dryer: Unplug the dryer and wipe the drum with a cloth dipped in disinfecting solution. Be sure to wipe all areas of the drum and dryer door.

Then, rinse the drum with a cloth dipped in water. Leave the dryer open until all parts are thoroughly dry, preferably overnight.

When the drum is dry, plug the dryer in and resume normal use.

In addition to disinfecting the washer and dryer, be sure to sanitize laundry baskets, work surfaces and containers where clean clothes will be placed.

Keep clean, sanitized clothes separate and away from surfaces likely to be contaminated.

Flood-soiled clothing Flood water may be contaminated with sewage waste, leaving harmful bacteria in clothing.

Hot water and detergent are not enough to reduce the number of bacteria to a safe level.

A disinfectant, such as liquid chlorine bleach, will prevent harmful bacteria from being transferred from one article of clothing to another during laundering or from remaining inside the washer and being transferred from one load of clothes to the next.

Chlorine bleach is usually harmful to certain fabrics such as wool, silk, and durable-press fabrics and it can cause colored garments to fade.

However, a sanitizing amount — about 2 tablespoons per load — can be used to kill bacteria without substantial damage to fabrics.

Clothes that can be washed at home should be laundered as soon as possible to prevent mildew from damaging them. Shake off all loose dirt and rinse each article several times in cool water to remove embedded and surface soil particles. A cold water soak with an enzyme product may be helpful. Add a little extra detergent to the wash load.

Do not immerse flood-soiled clothing in hot, soapy water. If the flood waters carried red or yellow clay, the hot detergent suds may set rust-colored stains in the fabric.

After washing clothes put them into an automatic dryer.

Insurance

Those problems were partly responsible for an investigation and eventual indictments of forgery and official misconduct against former Village Clerk Mary Warren.

In November 1993, the village received a letter from the Illinois Department of Transportation Floodplain Management Section, saying it had three months to begin the second of a three-phase plan to deal with those problems.

The first phase was identifying affected buildings, the second was finding the lowest floor elevations of those buildings.

On Feb. 15, 1994, Mayor Glen

Wilson wrote to FEMA, stating inclement weather and budgetary problems were causing a delay in completing the second phase. At the time he said the second phase would "commence shortly" and asked for a deadline extension until May 30, 1994.

"As of today, a year later, no data has been received by the DWR or FEMA," Odesho's letter said. "If our regional office does not receive the requested data, we will recommend that your community be considered for NFIP probation."

"I thought the problem was taken care of last year," Macek said. Wilson said part of the problem was money. However, $30,000 for engineering services related to the flood plain elevation was included in last year's budget, which ended April 30.

The third phase will be making sure the permit and record-keeping system is adequate, and correcting whatever problems exist in targeted buildings, Birman said.

Because most are mobile homes, he added that raising or flood proofing the structures will not be difficult in most cases. However, Birman said structures that could not be raised or flood proofed might have to be removed.

Notification bill given to Edgar Monday

SPRINGFIELD — Two versions of a proposal requiring doctors to notify a parent or other relative before performing an abortion on a girl under 18 were sent to the governor Monday.

Gov. Jim Edgar is expected to sign the less stringent House bill, an aide said.

"Anything we can do to discourage abortions is a step forward," said Felicia Goeken of Alton, Illinois director of the National Federation for Right to Life.

"It is sorely needed," she added.

Wrangling between the Illinois House and Senate nearly killed one bill, but eventually each chamber approved the other's version of the controversial proposal.

The Senate bill requires that either a parent or legal guardian must be notified of the planned abortion and provides for civil penalties against doctors who break the law.

Edgar, a supporter of abortion rights, is expected to sign the less restrictive House version, which also allows notification of step-parents living with the minor or grandparents.

Under the House bill, a disciplinary review board, not a court, would decide punishment of a doctor who disobeys the law.

"We'll review both bills, but the governor has indicated that he supports the House bill," Edgar spokesman Eric Robinson said.

Sen. Evelyn Bowles D-Edwardsville, voted against the House bill.

"You really cannot legislate family relations," Bowles said, adding that the measure violates the doctor-patient relationship.

Bowles also said that judicial bypass provisions in both bills infringe on minors' rights to privacy.

On a case-by-case basis, both bills allow judges to waive parental notification if a minor is mature and informed enough to decide to have an abortion for herself, if she fears abuse from her parents or if the pregnancy resulted from incest or rape.

"If a young woman opted for judicial bypass, it would be public record," Bowles said. "Judicial bypass is not a real way out."

The votes followed long and passionate debates in both chambers.

"We are rolling back the 20th century as we are entering the 21st," said Rep. Judy Erwin, D-Chicago, a Senate bill opponent who suggested that the House might also repeal women's right to vote.

Sen. Doris Karpis R-Carol Stream, a sponsor of the House bill, choked back tears as she argued for the measure.

"We can't give medication in schools, but the state allows major surgery on children," Karpis said.

Sen. Frank Watson, R-Greenville, voted to endorse the House bill.

Reps. Ron Stephens, R-Troy; Tom Ryder, R-Jerseyville; Jay Hoffman, D-Collinsville; Gary Hannig, D-Bell; and Steve Davis, D-Bethalto, all voted to endorse the Senate bill.

Lady Warriors meet O'Fallon in sectional semifinals.

Art Voellinger

State tourney needs revision

About a year ago this scribe was fortunate to be a coach at the Illinois High School Association's Class AA state baseball finals at Geneva.

If you don't know where Geneva is, it's not in Switzerland. However, had you traveled with the O'Fallon Panthers I coached, you might have enjoyed going foreign.

IT'S TAKEN A year, but I finally am letting off steam about how the North dominates an event like the state baseball finals, which once were held in Peoria and later in Springfield. The latter two would seem likely sites, but the IHSA is in the business of money. Without question, hosting the big-school finals in the Chicago area is a sure way of making rather than losing money.

Yet, if your school is from south of the outskirts of Chicago, you're in for a trip if you advance to state. No need to dwell on how the Geneva athletic director botched the housing plans for O'Fallon, nor how the IHSA never contacted us when the first-day games ran hours behind schedule because of high scoring. And there's no need to harp about powerful Joliet Catholic openly chewing smokeless tobacco at the banquet on the eve of the tourney.

WHAT IS TOUGH to swallow is that the IHSA has a Final Eight that has no room for double elimination and is a Friday-Saturday affair that can end in a blink regardless of the travel involved.

At a recent seeding meeting of the six teams involved in the Centralia Regional, I voiced some of my objections and concerns, and Centralia athletic director Rick Moss agreed enough to attempt something the IHSA never will do.

But before getting to Moss' move, realize that in the state finals if rain or inclement weather cuts a game short, that game can be an official contest after 4½ innings if the home team is ahead. How would you like to invest a spring and maybe as many as 35 games in a season in getting to state a goal, then yield to a weather-related rule?

SURE, IT MIGHT only happen once every 10 years, including a five-inning game due to the 10-run rule, but it's as bad as not having double elimination.

To me, it would have been like the McKendree College women's softball team reaching the NAIA national tourney only to leave after losing. Fortunately, there was a loser's bracket there and the Lady Cats got to play three more games and nearly reached the title contest.

To allow that on the prep level, the state finals could start a day sooner — especially since the tourney site is lighted. And if rain or weather interfered, Sunday is a day the IHSA should put to use.

That's what Moss did recently after Centralia and O'Fallon were rained out four times during the regular season. The schools scheduled a Sunday (May 21) game at Centralia. The game time was set at 2 p.m., allowing for churchgoers to do both — get to church and the game.

"SOMETIMES YOU HAVE no choice but to do something like that," said O'Fallon principal Dennis Grimmer, who gave his blessings to the idea (pardon the thought of a public school principal and blessings).

Still, the IHSA must have more power than I thought. The rains of late Saturday wiped out baseball on Sunday at Centralia. Will future Sunday games be scheduled? I'm for it, while realizing it's a matter left to local school boards. However, that's something I wish that IHSA would incorporate more.

There's nothing wrong with listening any more than incorporating common sense.

GCCHS moves on to face Edwardsville in semis

By Pat Hutchison
Correspondent

The Civic Memorial Eagles ended the baseball season the same way they spent most of it — looking for just one big hit.

CM could only muster two hits and six baserunners against Granite City pitching, and finished at 9-18 after a 2-0 loss Friday in the quarterfinals of the Granite City Class AA Regional tournament. The Warriors (16-14) moved on to play top seed Edwardsville at 10 a.m. Saturday in the semifinals, weather permitting.

"IT'S BECOMING a broken record," CM coach Gary Bruening said. "No hitting, no hitting."

"Nick (pitcher Nick Smith) threw the ball really well. But if he has to go out and throw a shutout just for a tie...we're putting a lot of pressure on our pitchers."

The Eagles, batting .213 as a team coming into the game, scored just one run in their last four games. The closest they came to getting a run across Friday came in the bottom of the second, when Matt Brueckner led off with a single. Brueckner became the only CM runner to reach third base following a throwing error later in the inning.

"You score one run in 28 innings, something's wrong," Bruening said. "With the weather we've had, the only thing we've been able to do (in practice) is hit."

SMITH HELD THE Warriors to five hits and two earned runs, but Granite City scratched out runs in the second and fourth to give starter Billy Niepert the victory.

Keith Simon led off the second with a walk and Ervay sacrificed him to second, making it to first safely on a throwing error. A walk to Brian Etherton loaded the bases. Jonathan Reader then hit into a 6-4-3 double play, although the run scored.

Scott Nemeth and Simon were hit by pitches in the Granite City fourth, and another error on a sacrifice bunt by Ervay sent pinch-runner Jay Simpson home.

"We work at our bunting game very hard," Granite City coach Gus Lignoul said. "We've been very successful at it. That's how we get things done."

"IF YOU HAVE good pitching and good defense, a couple of runs here and there and you've got a chance."

Lady Warriors in sectional semis

GCCHS blanks Glenwood 2-0

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

The Lady Warrior soccer team continued its recovery from a late-season slump Thursday with a 2-0 Granite City Sectional victory over Chatham Glenwood. But GCCHS is still looking for a cure for its latest injury woes.

Junior goalkeeper Marilee Holsinger joined the list of casualties Thursday in a sectional quarterfinal game at Memorial Stadium. Holsinger left the field early in the second half after making a sliding save on a hard collision with a Glenwood player, and was taken to the hospital.

HOLSINGER SUFFERED a broken jaw and could be out for the rest of the year. She is sidelined indefinitely along with seniors Holly Farnsworth, Penny Kreher and Tonya Genovese.

But the Lady Warriors survived Holsinger's loss Thursday and got strong play from freshman goalie Shannon Roth, who took over with GCCHS ahead 1-0 and made a save late in the game on a penalty kick to hold off the Lady Redskins.

"It was a very good team win," Baker said. "It was the most morale we've had in some time."

Lady Warriors triumph in regional opener

Heather Kraus, Holly Wittman and Jill Sherlock remained in the Alton dugout long after a 4-3 opening-round East Alton-Wood River Class AA Regional loss Thursday to Granite City.

The three departing seniors lingered, refusing to believe the second-seeded Redbirds had lost to the seventh-seeded Lady Warriors, and pondering what ifs.

WHAT IF the base umpire hadn't called Jill McElroy out on a controversial call to end the game?

Running from second to third on Kraus' grounder to short, it appeared that McElroy eluded the tag attempt by shortstop Angie Nance.

"I thought she missed the tag," Alton coach Joe Hook said after the game. "He called her out all the way and stuck to his guns."

What if the Redbirds hadn't stranded 12 runners?

"Our hitting's dropped off the last three or four games," Hook lamented. "A couple of times, if we just get the ball in play, we win."

ONE OF THOSE times was in the bottom of the first. With Granite City up 1-0 thanks to some aggressive baserunning by leadoff hitter Julie Rohmstedt, the Redbirds loaded the bases with nobody out. But Chrissie Greathouse struck out the next three batters to end the threat.

The Lady Warrior hurler started in place of regular starter Jennifer Willis, who has been nursing a bad back.

"Greathouse filled in great," Granite City coach John Hutchings said. She struck out seven and allowed just two runs in five innings before Willis came in to finish.

After leaving the bases loaded again in the second, Alton finally got on the board in the third. Sherlock scored on a wild pitch after being struck by a pitch and advancing on a single by Beth Hall and a sacrifice bunt by Gwyn Eschbach.

Meanwhile, Alton pitcher Susie Angleton seemed to be cruising (See REGIONAL, Page 3B)

Athletic trainers picked for Prairie State Games

Athletes competing in the Prairie State Games this summer will be in good medical hands. Dr. Neil Christen and Ron Finnman, a registered nurse and certified athletic trainer, will be directing medical care and services for the 12th annual games, scheduled for July in the Metro East.

Mike and Maureen Moore, executive directors of the games, announced the appointments.

CHRISTEN, FROM Collinsville, will serve as medical director of the games. He is board-certified by the American Board of Medicine and the American Board of Family Practice. He serves as project medical director of the Emergency Medical System, Illinois Region IV-B and is a physician in the emergency department of Memorial Hospital in Belleville.

Finnman, also of Collinsville, will serve as director of medical services for the games. He is employed by Belleville Orthopedic Surgeons Ltd.

Major medical sponsors for the games are Memorial Hospital of Belleville and MedStar Inc. In addition to being gold and bronze-level sponsors, both are providing medical support staff at all venues of the games. Medical services will be supported by Med Star Ambulance Service. Also, fire departments and ambulance services from cities with event venues will provide ambulance coverage.

SANDRA KNIGHT, a registered nurse at Memorial Hospital and EMS system coordinator and Dr. Stephen ATC, a certified athletic trainer from St. Elizabeth's Medical Center in Granite City, will assist in over-with it." While the Lady Warriors had numerous scoring chances throughout the game, only Ellis and Michelle Montgomery were able to convert. With time winding down, Kara Gauen slid a pass to Ellis in front of the net and the junior beat Glenwood goalie Amy Votava with a quick shot.

With 10:18 left, Glenwood was awarded a penalty kick after the Lady Warriors were called for a foul in the box. Strawlow's shot failed to get past Roth, who deflected the ball over the net.

Stralow hit the side of the net on the ensuing corner kick, and the Lady Warriors took over possession. With 3:49 left, Roth made a sparkling save off a point-blank shot to preserve the shutout.

The victory avenged Granite City's 1-0 loss to Glenwood on May 6. The Lady Warriors suffered a 1-0 loss to Collinsville two days later and lost Genovese, one of the team's top defenders. Two other seniors, Farnsworth and Kreber, have been out all season.

Granite City won its first two sectional games after a two-game slump.

"We played good defense. They're a very well-coached team with a lot of aggressive players. They had a great year."

GCIS outshot Glenwood 10-0 but had just two corner kicks, while the Lady Redskins had three.

The Lady Warriors led most of the way after scoring their first goal 10:44 into the game. Montgomery headed in a shot from Tara Tomlinson, who drove to the net before discharging off.

Holinger made five saves in the half, including one on a 30-yard direct kick by Strawlow at the 16:23 mark.

Granite City (12-5-1), coming off Monday's 7-0 win over Roxana, advanced to the sectional semifinals with the victory. The Lady Warriors were scheduled to take on O'Fallon (19-3), which defeated Quincy 2-1 Thursday.

5:30 p.m. Saturday, Collinsville shut out Alton 4-0 and was set to meet Springfield in the other semifinal Saturday. Springfield defeated Althoff 2-0.

The Lady Warriors have won two straight sectional titles and were seeded first in this year's tournament. All four top seeds made it to the semifinals.

O'Fallon is seeded fourth, Collinsville is seeded second and Springfield is seeded third.

The sectional championship game is scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday. The winner will advance to next weekend's Illinois state tournament at Conant High School in Hoffman Estates.

to victory. She retired 10 in a row in one stretch, but gave up a leadoff double to Nancy Ahlvers to start the fifth. Ahlvers scored on a single by Jill Wozniak.

Alton tied it in the bottom of the inning on a walk, a bunt, a wild pitch, and a single by Angie Voorhees.

The Redbirds went ahead 3-2 in the sixth. Wittman walked with one out. Pinch runner Nicole Stuart stole second, went to third on a groundout, and scored on a wild pitch.

And what if the Redbirds could have got one more out?

With two out in the seventh, Willis tripled to deep left field to score Ahlvers from first with the tying run. Willis scored the winning run when Wozniak followed with an RBI double to left center that stunned the Redbirds (17-13) and even Hutchings.

"I'm in shock," he said. "I fully expected not to win this game. Wozniak has really been struggling with her hitting, but she came through today."

Hook said it was a rough way for Kraus, Wittman, and Sherlock to end their careers.

"It's going to be tough to replace these girls," Hook said. "They've all started since they were freshmen. I really feel bad for them going out like this."

GCIS (5-14) was scheduled to meet the Triad-Jacksonville winner at 10 a.m. Saturday in a semifinal game at Wood River.

Jalinsky, No. 2 Lady Kahoks oust Alton 4-0

By Brian Bretsch

Collinsville senior goaltender Mary Silhavy worked up more of a sweat than during the Lady Kahoks' game against Alton on Thursday.

Silhavy faced one shot in the entire game and easily made the save as Collinsville blanked the Redbirds 4-0 in the Regional C of the Granite City Sectional.

It was Silhavy's ninth shutout of the season. Julie Stout was also credited with part of the shutout. She played the last 12 minutes of the game.

The Lady Kahoks (22-7-2) were scheduled to play Springfield High (13-3-3) on Saturday at 7:30 p.m., in the semifinals of the Granite City Sectional. The winner will play Granite City or O'Fallon for the sectional title at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Granite City.

Melanie Scaggs and Co. did an excellent job for Collinsville keeping the ball pushed to the wings Thursday.

Melanie has been playing tremendously since at least mid-season." Collinsville coach Deanna Wallace said. "She has been really stepping up and playing beautiful balls. I don't care what foot it comes to; she has really worked hard. She's been doing a great job."

The Lady Kahoks did an exceptional job beating Alton (12-8-1) to the ball in the second half. Alton's Jill Heneghan, who had three goals and two assists in the two preliminary rounds of the regional, was smothered almost immediately when she touched the ball.

"Mel, I basically give her control out there," Wallace said. "Mary (Silhavy) is the keeper and she controls the defense, but

Two captains who reside in St. Charles, Tracy Goettel of the St. Louis Women's All-Stars championship team, Gene Del Printing, and Chris Taylor of the Anheuser-Busch BPA Masters runner-up, Krey's Bud Light Barons, earned the Most Valuable Player honors this past season.

Joining Goettel on the Women's All-Star team were Jennings resident Devera Mackey, captain of first-half winner Crestwood Bowl, and her teammate, south St. Louisan Kelly Schuler; Affton's Kim Kramer of Boatmen's Baneshares, and Belleville's Jana Luden of Purcell Distributing.

The commissioners of the Masters League changed the All-Star system from a player's ballot to a point system. It worked so well, that 11 players dominated the season's statistics.

Because they were so close, the commissioners felt it would be unfair to drop any of them, so instead of a seven-player All-Star team this year, 11 players were selected.

The other All-Stars included three each from Gravois, captain Rich Ort, Mike Wineman and Randy Lightfoot — and from Krey were Keith Bruening, Kevin Bruening and Bob Marable.

Completing the group were Mike Crossman of Michelside Dry, Tom Shucart of Herrell's, Budweiser Eagles, Tony Tyson of Busch Light and Dave Cummings of Bud Dry.

Ort is from Marlborough, Minnerman lives in Belleville, Lightfoot and the Bruening brothers also are from St. Charles. Marable and Shucart reside in Florissant, Crossman is from Maryland Heights, Tyson from Moline Acres and Cummings from Affton.

Taylor won the Masters average title with a 228 mark and Crossman had the high series of 857. Marable took the Ray Bluth Match Play award with 729 percentage on 54 victories in 74 starts.

Completing the list of one-game 12-strikers were Grey Eagle's Steve Ort from Marlborough and Bill Schmidt from south St. Louis; Krey's Bill Herlicker, Jr., from Belleville; Bud Dry's Dennis Sherman from St. Charles and Godfrey Wilson from north county; Busch Light's John Marala from St. Charles and Sean Shelton of Dellwood; Herrell's Al Gilcoat of Draft's Doug Buehrer from Granite City.

St. Ann Lanes, an eight-lane center on St. Charles Rock Road in St. Ann, has closed permanently, as of May 10. The center was about 50 years old.

It was the third center to close within five days. Bowl-Ero Lanes in Berkeley also went out of business, while Granite Bowl in Granite City closed on May 6 after being bought by Bowling Corporation of America, which owns competing Bowland in Granite City.

Kammann three centers in Illinois — the 50-lanes St. Clair Bowl and 24-lane Bel-Air Bowl, both in Belleville. He purchased the establishment from Dennis and Sandy Cooper, whose son, Cord, was the general manager.

Kammann's first project is to open for summer leagues this year. The center was closed during the summer in recent years. The general manager will be Mark Tubb, who retires in May from the Air Force and has many years of bowling center experience.

Kammann plans major renovations and has already ordered new automatic scorers, the AMP Accu-Score top of the line. He also is buying eight lanes of the new AMF bumper system. The system will be installed in August, in time for the fall leagues.

Kammann also is installing new carpets, wall coverings and furniture. St. Clair also is getting new carpeting and wall coverings and Bel-Air will get new carpeting.

Mel as a field player is in total control back there. She's really been working on pulling the other teams offside."

While Scaggs was frustrating the Alton strikers, center forward Heather Jalinsky went to work for the Lady Kahoks. Jalinsky scored the first two goals for Collinsville. Her first goal could have qualified for an instructional video on how to sneak past an offside trap.

Aimee Jenks set up the entire play. Jenks gathered an Alton clearing pass on the right wing. Jalinsky sneaked behind the last Alton defender on the left wing and waited for the pass.

"I was running up and Aimee Jenks was on the far side and just passed it over," Jalinsky said. "I dribbled up for a minute and just took the shot."

Alton goalkeeper Carrie Massey never had a chance for a save on the play. Jalinsky raised her hand and Jenks spotted her on the wing. Jenks sent a perfect, floating pass to the left wing that Jalinsky collected, dribbled once and put it into the right corner of the net.

Jalinsky made it 2-0 at the 21:24 mark with her 17th goal of the season. Monica Roberts' initial shot was partially blocked by Massey, but she couldn't control the rebound. Jalinsky was able to collect the rebound as she walked in and ripped the ball into the net. She joked after the game that she almost put too much foot behind the ball.

"It was just a rebound and I was just there," Jalinsky said. "It almost didn't go in. I almost kicked it over."

Rainy Ossola appeared to give Collinsville a 3-0 lead with 14 minutes left in the half. However, the referee on the right side blew his whistle before the ball went into the net. He indicated Ossola was offside.

Tasha Siegel eventually gave Collinsville a 3-0 lead in the second half. Jackie Benesh put the finishing touches on the scoring with a goal with 6:35 left.

"It's my second year, and getting another regional win is something I will take every time," Wallace said.

After giving up the second run, Smith retired 12 of the final 13 batters he faced, walking two and striking out two.

"In the first three innings, we left a couple of runners on base," Lignoul said. "You have to give a lot of credit to Smith."

But Niepert fanned eight while walking none in pitching the first five innings and improved to 5-5. Lanky (6-4, 190-pound) Matt Tieman finished up, striking out the side in the seventh.

"Billy Niepert did an outstanding job. He got ahead of the hitters."

Brueckner was the only Civic Memorial batter to get on base more than once. He singled, walked and also reached on a fielder's choice.

Besides the errors, the Eagles played well enough defensively. Charlie Rose made a fine running catch in left field in the fourth to rob Reader, and catch-

In other regional action Friday, Jerseyville defeated Alton 2-0. The Panthers moved on to the regional semifinals and were scheduled to play Wood River at 1 p.m. Saturday at GCHS.

In earlier meetings this year, Granite City lost to Edwardsville and Jerseyville lost to Wood River twice. The semifinals winners advanced to the regional title game, scheduled for 4 p.m. Tuesday.

Tips for using topwater lures

For bass fishermen, something special happens at this time of year, something called topwater fishing. Catching a fish, any fish, is exciting. But seeing the oversized maw of a hunting, hungry black bass open wide and create a watery explosion around a bass bit of food you're offering can be heart-stopping.

Ask seasoned bass fishermen when they fish topwater lures and they'll give you a variety of answers. Personally, I like to start trying topwaters when the water temperatures get into the high 60s and, depending upon the conditions, I'll continue to use them until the water temps climb into the 80s. However, the very best time is when the surface water temperatures range from 70 to 75 degrees.

Topwaters fall into several categories.

One that is used when water temperatures get into the 50s and low 60s and then often is forgotten later in the season is the minnow-type — the Rapala, Rebel, Rattlin' Rouge, Long A and similar lures called "stick baits" or "jerk baits." That last name, "jerk baits," is part of a problem with using this lure later in the season. Early spring anglers often weigh these lures, cast them out and let them sink or suspend, then use a jerk-pause method of retrieving them. It works great.

However, later in the season, when the bass are looking for something right on the surface, don't overlook the minnow types as actual topwaters. Cast them out and let them float at a rest. Barely nod the head of the lure a bit like a dying minnow. Then twitch it very lightly on the retrieve. If that doesn't work, try reeling so slowly that the tail leaves a little "v" in the water's surface. Expect explosive results.

In areas where the timber has been flooded or there's heavy weeds or brush, many anglers like to use the buzz bait — the venerable Lunker Lure, Strike King's Buzz King, Norman's Triple Wing, Hart's Buzz Throb and many others. All use some form of aluminum paddle-like blades to gurgle the lure across the surface.

Usually the slower the retrieve the better for bass, although for northern pike and muskellunge a fast retrieve can get your arms jerked almost off! When a super-slow retrieve is desired, try purchasing one of the buzz baits featuring Lexan or plastic blades (usually three-bladed models) because this stuff tends to float higher and work slower. The biggest problem is that the blades break, so carry extras.

There are several types of lures that require you to do the work. These lures basically have little action and produce few results unless you know how to make them work. Of these, the so-called "walk-in" lures probably are the most popular — and for most anglers that boils down to Heddon's Zara Spook.

There are others on the market, including Ozark's Wood-walker, Arbogast's Phred's Phyl-deaux, Norman's ZZ Top Lure and others, but the Zara Spook is the choice of most.

It looks like a fat cigar and floats tail down in the waters. Simply reel it in and it will duke under the water and come straight back consistently alone. However, use a rod with a fairly soft universal action, point the rod tip at the water and give it little twitches — and watch the lure walk across the water's surface in a zig-zagging way that calls big bass to smash it with a vengeance. I've had bass knock the lure high into the air and be waiting for it to land with what seemed to be an open mouth. It's definitely exciting!

Unfortunately, many anglers (I'm one) get so hooked on fishing the Zara Spook that they forget other great topwaters that sometimes produce equally well or better. One example is the propeller-type, led by Smithwick's Devil Horse. There's also Ozark's Woodchopper, Gilmore's Jumper, Lure-Jensen's Nip-I-Diddee, and Cornell's Boy Howdy. All of these lures have props fore and aft.

Most topwater anglers prefer baitcasting tackle, but you can fish topwaters with spinning or spincasting tackle. The big thing is to select a rod with an action that is soft enough to absorb the big strikes you'll get. And when the strike comes, learn to overcome the urge to strike back on sight, wait until you feel the jerk at the end of your line. Otherwise, you'll pull the lure from the fish's mouth before it gets a good grip.

The only other thing you have to remember is to be constantly ready. Don't freeze, and especially if you have a weak heart, don't get too excited. That's topwater fishing!

Horoscope

Sunday, May 28

Enjoying a lazy morning is a good idea — having breakfast in bed or on the backyard patio is a perfect plan. Do some weeding, or maybe fix a fence. Then, after lunch, the moon will move from steady and solid Taurus to light-hearted, social-butterfly Gemini. Detailed paperwork is favored if you don't get distracted by phone chats or a bright idea.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) The fun of having your pals involved makes it easier to tackle some of the more tedious tasks of the day. Throughout the afternoon, neighborhood, and community efforts are worth pursuing.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Breakfast with your favorite companion is a fine idea — take advantage of your car-special lucky streak at every opportunity. Use the additional dose of charm you're currently blessed with to win a heart.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21) Sleep in and dream a brilliant scheme to help your car. After lunch, tackle home tasks and start new projects. Electronic gadgets need attention and respond well to repair efforts.

CANCER (June 22-July 22) A support group can help with weight or money problems. Get all the busywork done in the morning so you can take a refreshing nap in the afternoon. A television or radio show has key information for you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) True love is part of the answer — and so is learning to respect the judgment of a practical mentor or older authority figure. Listening opens the way to another part of the answer. A Virgo figures strongly.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (May 28) New horizons and great curiosity mark the year. A partnership formed in July adds to your income — if it is formed in August, it holds a key to your future. In September, make your move. In October, a romantic liaison fulfills a dream. In November, prove that you have what it takes. Aim high in December, because the sky's the limit in '96.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Are you ready to begin a new cycle of influence and authority? Today, review information that you'll need to take a strong stand next week. Once you've done your homework, you have full confidence to move ahead.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A child's needs are met by quick thinking on your part. A warm and cuddly approach is your best bet in all love matters now — it's a special time for a romance with someone very unusual and important to you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21) Forgive an enemy, an old friend and an ex so you will be prepared for a few weeks of in-depth relating. Get acquainted with your bank balance — if it isn't just right, next week offers chances for improvement.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Powerful acquaintances are developed in the next few weeks, so spiff up the wardrobe and check out the haircut status so that making a first impression can be your top priority. Clean up your home for guests, too!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Entertaining at home could be your ticket to big success during the next few weeks, but if you want to clean up today, you'll have to forgo fun with the kids, fun with hobbies and fun in general. Hmmm.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Get fit over the next few weeks — have a friend take you along to gym or teach you a sport. You're full of family concerns, but take time to get ready for a full week of fun and flirtations. PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Neighbors and fun-loving friends drop by. Enjoy spontaneous trips, calls, changes of plan and errands.
